

Action Takers

Access to education

A guide on how to overcome barriers to learning and get your child the education they deserve

🗨 To get this guide on WhatsApp, message "Access to education" to 064 721 0958
(tel:0647210958)

1

Get a letter from the school(s) stating the reasons why admission has been declined

Who is this for?

Read on if you and your child have unsuccessfully applied to the school of your choice. If you haven't applied yet you can use our school finder (</docs/wc-school-search.html>) to find a school in your area.

This step will explain how you can get a letter with the school's reasons for rejecting your child. If you already have that letter, move on and find out how to appeal the decision ().

Key summary

Schools are not allowed to discriminate against learners during the admission process

A parent has the right to choose which school their child can attend

Use this draft () to write a request to the school, asking them for the reasons why admission has been declined

This process often takes between 6 and 7 weeks

Resources to help you

Find the contact details of the school

Use our school finder (</docs/wc-school-search.html>) to get the email address and telephone number of the school you want to contact.

Writing the letter

In order to take this matter further you need to request a formal letter from the school stating why your child was denied access. We've created a draft letter (link) you can use as a starting point. Make sure to fill out all the relevant details and send it to the head of the school(s) your child was denied access from.

Following up with the school

The process of getting the letter often takes between 6 and 7 weeks. You can use our handy reminder service (link) to help you remember to follow up with the school in due course.

How can the school governing body help?

If the school principal rejected your application because the school is unable to cater for your child's special-needs, then the governing body might be able to intervene. For example, if your child needs wheelchair access, and the school does not cater for this, then they could deny access. In this case the governing body could adjust the school's budget to make accommodations for the work required to add wheelchair access.

🔍 What does the law say?

A public school must admit learners and serve their educational requirement without unfairly discriminating in any way: SASA Section 5 (1)
(https://www.acts.co.za/south-african-schools-act/5_admission_to_public_schools)

In determining the placement of a learner with special education needs, the Head of Department and principal must take into account the rights and wishes of the parents of such learner: SASA Section 5 (6)
(https://www.acts.co.za/south-african-schools-act/5_admission_to_public_schools)

If all schools reject your application, follow this appeal process:

Write a letter of appeal to the MEC for education

❗ Key summary

If you are unhappy with reasons provided for unsuccessful admission you can appeal to the MEC

MEC stands for "Member of the Executive Council", they are members of your province's cabinet, each in charge of their own portfolio. All provinces have an MEC in charge of education

Use this draft (/docs/mec-draft-letter.pdf) to write an appeal letter to the MEC. Explain the reasons for declining admission the school has given you and why you are unhappy with them

Details

 Resources to help you

Writing the appeal letter

In order to appeal the school's decision, you need to send a formal appeal letter to the relevant MEC.

We've created a draft letter (</docs/mec-draft-letter.pdf>) you can use as a starting point. Make sure to fill out all the relevant details and send it to the your province's MEC.

Find out who your province's Education MEC is

Every province has an MEC in charge of education, you can find yours in this list of MECs and their contact details ().

 What does the law say?

Any learner or parent of a learner who has been refused admission to a public school may appeal against the decision to the Member of the Executive Council - SASA Section 5 (9)

Alternatively, write a letter of appeal to the District Director

❗ Key summary

The District Director must ensure all learners are enrolled in school after the admission period

🕒 This process often takes about 30 days

📄 Details

🔑 Resources to help you

🔍 What does the law say?

(8) Notwithstanding the provisions of any school admission policy, in the case of a learner who has not been placed at any school 30 school days after the end of the admission period, the District Director may place that learner at any school-

(a) which has not been declared full in terms of Regulation 8, and

(b) in respect of which there are no remaining

The MEC will launch an investigation into your case

❗ Key summary

The MEC is responsible for ensuring support for Barriers to learning is accessible for learners at ordinary public schools

Should it be found that the school was wrong to decline admission, the MEC will ensure that placement is found and that reasonable accommodations will be made for the learner

❗ Details

Writing the appeal letter

In order to appeal the school's decision, you need to send a formal appeal letter to the relevant MEC.

We've created a draft letter (link) you can use as a starting point. Make sure to fill out all the relevant details and send it to the your province's MEC.

Find out who your province's Education MEC is

Every province has an MEC in charge of education, you can find yours in this list of MECs and their contact details (link).

What does the law say?

Any learner or parent of a learner who has been refused admission to a public school may appeal against the decision to the Member of the Executive Council - SASA Section 5 (9)

4

A meeting will be set up to discuss your child's needs